Why TaxBanter In-house Tax Training?

In-house tax training is a highly effective way of meeting your firm's tax learning needs. The advantages of in-house training include;

- We come to you, so there are no travel costs or time lost travelling to training sessions
- Your staff trains together allowing sharing of knowledge and discussion in a friendly setting
- An in-house setting allows your client queries to be raised and discussed confidentially in the context of the training session
- We work closely with you to tailor a Tax Update and Special Topic training program that meets your firm's professional development needs and budget
- Staff retention through the commitment to quality training focused to the needs of your firm and employees

What?

Training sessions can be scheduled monthly, bi-monthly or quarterly. Training sessions are usually conducted over a 2 or 3 hour period and contain a Tax Update and a Special Topic chosen from our extensive list. Comprehensive yet practical training content is provided to you by email ahead of your training session.

As an in-house client you will also have access to Tax Library, our online database of Tax Update & Special Topic content, which allows clients to reduce their research time by easily accessing content and issues discussed in their in-house sessions.

Who?

The strength of the TaxBanter business is a direct result of the quality of personnel engaged by it. All of our staff have extensive experience in delivering tax courses, as well as strong backgrounds in professional practice. Our combined pool of tax trainers offers exceptional levels of variety, specialization and experience in all areas of the tax law.

Where?

Over the past two years TaxBanter has acquired the Kaplan tax training division and the Cyntax tax training business, which has enabled us to increase our national footprint. We can provide in-house training to firms in major cities and regional centres nationally. We also have the technology to provide interactive online training – so wherever you are, we will be able to service your in-house needs!

What is the cost?

As a guide, a TaxBanter 2 hour in-house session will cost $1400 + GST. Give us a call to discuss pricing of different session lengths and tailored programs.
